

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
incredible decision
to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
is a clear example
of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies
control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the owners and less of what we need
for our democracy.
Instead of self-serving propaganda from Sinclair
headquarters, it's more important that we see real people
from our own
communities and more
substantive news
about issues that matter.

Sinclair's actions
show why we need to strengthen media
ownership rules, not weaken them. It's a clear abuse of the system that shows
why the license
renewal process
needs to involve
more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
